First Reading

Zephaniah 3:14-18

A reading from the prophet Zephaniah

With gladness the Lord will rejoice over you.

Shout for joy, daughter of Zion, Israel, shout aloud!
Rejoice, exult with all your heart, daughter of Jerusalem!
The Lord has repealed your sentence; he has driven your enemies away.
The Lord, the king of Israel, is in your midst; you have no more evil to fear.
When that day comes, word will come to Jerusalem:
Zion, have no fear, do not let your hands fall limp.
The Lord your God is in your midst, a victorious warrior.
He will exult with joy over you, he will renew you by his love;
he will dance with shouts of joy for you as on a day of festival.

Responsorial Psalm

Is 12:2-6 R. v.6

(R.) Cry out with joy and gladness: for among you is the great and Holy One of Israel.

1. Truly, God is my salvation,
I trust, I shall not fear.
For the Lord is my strength, my song,
he became my saviour.
With joy you will draw water
from the wells of salvation. (R.)
2. Give thanks to the Lord, give praise to his name!
Make his mighty deeds known to the peoples!
Declare the greatness of his name. (R.)
3. Sing a psalm to the Lord
for he has done glorious deeds,
make them known to all the earth!
People of Zion, sing and shout for joy
for great in your midst is the Holy One of Israel. (R.)

Second Reading

Philippians 4:4-7

A reading from the letter of St Paul to the Philippians

The Lord is near.

I want you to be happy, always happy in the Lord; I repeat, what I want is your happiness. Let your tolerance be evident to everyone: the Lord is very near. There is no need to worry; but if there is anything you need, pray for it, asking God for it with prayer and thanksgiving, and that peace of God, which is so much greater than we can understand, will guard your hearts and your thoughts, in Christ Jesus.

Gospel Acclamation

Isaiah 61:1 (Lk 4:18)

Alleluia, alleluia!

The Spirit of the Lord is upon me;
he sent me to bring Good News to the poor.
Alleluia!

Gospel

Luke 3:10-18

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Luke

What, then, must we do?

When all the people asked John, 'What must we do?' he answered, 'If anyone has two tunics he must share with the man who has none, and the one with something to eat must do the same.' There were tax collectors too who came for baptism, and these said to him, 'Master, what must we do?' He said to them, 'Exact no more than your rate.' Some soldiers asked him in their turn, 'What about us? What must we do?' He said to them, 'No intimidation! No extortion! Be content with your pay!'

A feeling of expectancy had grown among the people, who were beginning to think that John might be the Christ, so John declared before them all, 'I baptise you with water, but someone is coming, someone who is more powerful than I am, and I am not fit to undo the strap of his sandals; he will baptise you with the Holy Spirit and fire. His winnowing-fan is in his hand to clear his threshing-floor and to gather the wheat into his barn; but the chaff he will burn in a fire that will never go out.' As well as this, there were many other things he said to exhort the people and to announce the Good News to them.

Communion Antiphon.

Cf Isaiah 35:4

Say to the faint of heart: Be strong and do not fear.
Behold, our God will come, and he will save us.

Living the gospel

Generosity of spirit

John's words to the crowd, the tax collectors and the soldiers are about adopting a spirit of generosity and a generosity of spirit. A generosity of spirit can be expressed simply in the attitude with which we approach other people: a positive, hope-filled and generous attitude will often turn around a potentially negative situation. As we approach the Christmas season, there is a need for practical actions of generosity as well. Those in need can approach Christmas with dread rather than joyful expectation. It can be the hardest time of year for struggling families. Acts of generosity can make all the difference.

Gospel Reflection

Is it any wonder that there was a growing sense among the people that John might be the Christ? His teaching in the first part of this week's gospel might just as easily have come from the mouth of Jesus. It demonstrates for us just how much John was preparing the way for Jesus: even his teaching was in line with what Jesus would later say. In this instance, the people gathered around John (presumably having been baptised by him) are asking how they should live out their new-found conversion of heart. John's response to the three groups is about the need for generosity and justice. It is about not taking more than your share when someone else does not have sufficient. To the crowd of people, he instructs them to give away a second tunic to someone who doesn't have one at all and to share their food with those who are hungry. To the tax collectors, he cautioned them to collect no more than what they were supposed to. Tax collectors made their profit by overcharging taxpayers. Together with the fact that they worked for the Roman occupiers, this made tax collectors one of the most despised groups in society. John's caution to them is to be just in their dealings. He also cautions the soldiers against intimidation and extorting money from the people to supplement their pay. The themes of justice and hospitality that will echo throughout the gospel of Luke are clearly evident in this episode with John. When the people start to talk about him being the Christ, John is quick to point them to the one who is still to come; the one who will share with them more fully the love of God and the fire of the Holy Spirit.

Pope at Audience: May the Spirit help us 'abound in hope'

At the weekly General Audience, Pope Francis concludes his cycle of catechesis on the Holy Spirit in the life of the Church, and recalls that the Holy Spirit is the "ever-flowing source of Christian hope."

By Christopher Wells

Pope Francis dedicated his reflection at the General Audience to the theme of "The Holy Spirit and the Bride: the Holy Spirit guides the People of God towards Jesus our hope", the title of the cycle of catechesis that concluded on Wednesday.

The Holy Father looked to the Book of Revelation, with the eschatological invocation, "Come," addressed to the risen Christ by "the Spirit and the Bride," noting that our hope for the final coming of Jesus is always present in the Church.

At the same time, the Pope said, the Church also expects the continuous coming of Christ "in the present and pilgrim situation."

Addressed to Christ and to the Spirit

Pope Francis noted that the Church's understanding of the invocation "Come" has developed: where once it was "habitually" addressed only to Christ, now the Church uses it to invoke the Holy Spirit as well, as in the familiar hymns, Veni Creator Spiritus and Veni Sancte Spiritus.

"It is right that it should be so," the Pope explained, "because after the Resurrection, the Holy Spirit is Christ's true alter ego, He who takes His place, who makes Him present and operative in the Church." That, he continued, "is why Christ and the Spirit are inseparable, also in the economy of salvation."

The source of Christian hope

The Holy Spirit, moreover, "is the ever-gushing source of Christian hope," the Holy Father continued, calling Him the "sail" that propels the Church along the sea of history.

Pope Francis insisted that hope is not an "empty word or a vague desire," but a certainty based on God's fidelity and therefore a theological virtue.

However, he continued, "Christians cannot be satisfied with having hope" but must also "radiate hope." Hope, he said, "is the most beautiful gift that the Church can give to all of humanity."

Ready to give a reason for hope

Finally, Pope Francis recalled the words of St. Peter, who encouraged the first Christians to always be ready to give a reason for their hope, adding that they should do so "with gentleness and reverence."

This, he said, is because people are convinced not so much by the strength of an argument as by the love with which they are made. "This is the most effective form of evangelization," he said, calling it a method that is "open to everyone."

Pope Francis concluded his catechesis with the prayer that the Holy Spirit might help us always "abound in hope."

On the evening of 7 December, the reopening of Notre Dame Cathedral put Paris in the spotlight once again as Archbishop Laurent Ulrich of Paris struck the magnificent door with his pastoral staff, marking the moment of the iconic Catholic church's rebirth.

May the rebirth of this admirable church be a prophetic sign of the renewal of the Church in France. Firefighters, craftsmen and representatives of the 250 companies and sponsors involved in the restoration then paraded through the nave of the cathedral to prolonged applause. The cathedral then 'responded' with the singing of Psalm 121 three times. 'I rejoiced when they said to me, "Let us go to the house of the Lord." And now our feet are standing within your gates, Jerusalem.

Jerusalem, built as a city, walled round about.' After a long prayer of dedication, Archbishop Ulrich anointed the altar with the blessed oil of Holy Chrism, spreading it over the entire surface with his bare hands. Then incense candles were lit at five points on the altar, on the five crosses engraved in bronze. Finally, the priests covered the altar with the white cloth and lit the candles to continue with Mass, by the choir's singing.

Jubilee 2025

The jubilee of Jesus

Jesus consciously used the language of jubilee when beginning his ministry. In the synagogue at Nazareth, he stood before the people and read from the prophet Isaiah: 'The spirit of the Lord is upon me, for he has anointed me to bring good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim release to captives, sight to the blind, to let the oppressed go free, to proclaim a year of the Lord's favour' (Lk 4:18-19). Through his life, death, and resurrection, what Jesus brought about was a kind of 'ultimate jubilee': a time of newness and 'new creation' (2 Cor 5:17), a time of abundant mercy for his people until his return in glory. The apostles saw their task as continuing this work of Christ's jubilee: 'See, now is the acceptable time; see, now is the day of salvation' (2 Cor 6:2).

Being pilgrims of hope in the world St Mary of the Cross Mackillop used to say:

'We are but travellers here.' For the 2025 Jubilee Year, Pope Francis invites us to reflect on what it means to be pilgrims of hope: a people who are not only travellers here but walking in joyful anticipation of 'the heavenly goal to which we have been called' (SNC §25). Pope Francis believes that, in today's world, hope suffers; that too many people have been robbed by cynicism and despair. During Jubilee 2025, he wants everyone to have 'an intense experience of the love of God that awakens in hearts the sure hope of salvation in Christ' (SNC §6). Only this hope—born from knowing that nothing can separate us from God's love (Rom 8:35-39)—can breathe life back into weary souls. This hope is not optimism. It is not a forced positivity in the face of hardship and evil. It is a grace from God, a trust in the Lord's promises: that he is good, that he is merciful, and that we are journeying towards the one who says, 'Look, I am making everything new' (Rev 21:5).

The Jubilee Prayer

Father in heaven,
may the faith you have given us
in your son, Jesus Christ, our brother, and the flame of charity enkindled
in our hearts by the Holy Spirit, reawaken in us the blessed hope
for the coming of your Kingdom.

May your grace transform us into tireless cultivators of the seeds of the Gospel.
May those seeds transform from within both humanity and the whole cosmos
in the sure expectation
of a new heaven and a new earth,
when, with the powers of Evil vanquished,
your glory will shine eternally.

May the grace of the Jubilee
reawaken in us, Pilgrims of Hope,
a yearning for the treasures of heaven.

May that same grace spread the joy and peace of our Redeemer
throughout the earth.

To you our God, eternally blessed,
be glory and praise for ever.

Amen.

Francis

Jokes of the Week

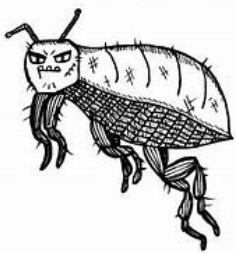

#1: “He who has two coats, let him share with him who has none” (Lk 3:11): I once heard of a Christian speaker who declared rhetorically, expecting the answer, “Yes”: “If you had two houses, you would give one to the poor, wouldn’t you?” “Yes,” said the man to whom the question was directed, “indeed I would.” “And if you had two cars,” went on the speaker, “you would keep one and give the other away?” “Yes, of course,” said the man. “And if you had two shirts, you would give one away?” “Hey, wait a minute,” said the man, “I’ve got two shirts.”

2: Usher Seats Pastor’s Mother: An elderly woman walked into the local country church. A friendly usher greeted her at the door and helped her up the flight of steps. “Where would you like to sit?” he asked. “The front row please,” she answered. “You really don’t want to do that,” the usher said. “The pastor is really boring with his long Advent “Do you happen to know who I am?” asked the woman. “No,” said the usher. “I’m the pastor’s mother,” she replied indignantly. “Do you know who I am?” the usher asked. “No,” she said. “Good,” said the usher.

3: A father was reading Bible stories to his young son. He read, “The man named Lot was warned to take his wife and flee out of the city, but his wife looked back and was turned into a pillar of salt.”

His son asked, “What happened to the flea?”

ADVENT REFLECTION - LECTIO DIVINA: With Fr Joseph O’Shea

LAST REFLECTION THIS MONDAY 6pm-7pm in the Church

Lectio Divina has an illustrious past. St Ambrose (4th century) taught it to St Augustine; and St Benedict (6th century) made it part of monastic life. Guigo II (12th century), prior of La Grande Chartreuse, wrote the classic text of Lectio Divina, which gives the Latin terms lectio, meditatio, oratio and contemplatio to the four steps of this ‘ladder’ of prayer. It went through a dark period in the 19th century, when the ‘historical critical’ approach of biblical studies made it unfashionable, but revived in the early 20th century and is now widely used.

Statement from the Catholic Archdiocese of Melbourne

The Catholic Archdiocese of Melbourne utterly condemns the appalling attack on the Adass Israel Synagogue in Melbourne.

Hello, my greetings to you. I've just arrived in Rome to the terrible, terrible news of the fire-bombing of the Adass Israel Synagogue in Melbourne.

I'm horrified by what has happened. This is truly an evil act, a wicked, wicked act by those who have perpetrated it. They have acted with enormous harm in so many different ways.

My prayers and my utter support is for the Jewish community in Melbourne and elsewhere at this moment. Know of my prayers for you. Know of my support for you. And that I utterly condemn what has occurred, and I also strongly condemn those who have perpetrated this, or any who might in some way think this is justified. It is not.

To my brothers and sisters in the Jewish community in Melbourne, know of my prayer for you. Know of my support for you, and know that I will reach out in whatever way I can to contend with this evil of antisemitism that is at play in our society at the moment.

Most Rev Peter A Comensoli

Archbishop of Melbourne.

VACANCY - Parish Secretary

Applications are to be sent to recruitment@cam.org.au

There is an opportunity for an experienced Secretary to undertake office administrative functions at the Parish of St Macartan's in a permanent part-time role reporting to the Parish Priest. The role of the Parish Secretary will be to build solid relationships and work collaboratively to provide support to the Parish Team, Volunteers and Parish Schools. The successful applicant must be well motivated to work for the Church and ideally possess a strong commitment to its practices and values.
