First Reading

1 Kings 3:5.7-12

A reading from the first book of the Kings

You have asked for wisdom.

The Lord appeared to Solomon in a dream and said, 'Ask what you would like me to give you.' Solomon replied, 'Lord, my God, you have made your servant king in succession to David my father. But I am a very young man, unskilled in leadership. Your servant finds himself in the midst of this people of yours that you have chosen, a people so many its numbers cannot be counted or reckoned. Give your servant a heart to understand how to discern between good and evil, for who could govern this people of yours that is so great?' It pleased the Lord that Solomon should have asked for this. 'Since you have asked for this' the Lord said 'and not asked for long life for yourself or riches or the lives of your enemies, but have asked for a discerning judgement for yourself, here and now I do what you ask. I give you a heart wise and shrewd as none before you has had and none will have after you.'

Responsorial Psalm

Ps 118:57. 72. 76-77. 127-130. R. v.97

(R.) Lord, I love your commands.

1. My part, I have resolved, O Lord, is to obey your word.

The law from your mouth means more to me
than silver and gold. (R.)

2. Let your love be ready to console me
by your promise to your servant.
Let your love come to me and I shall live
for your law is my delight. (R.)

3. That is why I love your commands more than finest gold.
That is why I rule my life by your precepts:
I hate false ways. (R.)

4. Your will is wonderful indeed;
therefore I obey it.
The unfolding of your word gives light and teaches the simple. (R.)

Second Reading

Romans 8:28-30

A reading from the letter of St Paul to the Romans

He predestined us to become true images of his Son.

We know that by turning everything to their good God co-operates with all those who love him, with all those that he has called according to his purpose. They are the ones he chose specially long ago and intended to become true images of his Son, so that his Son might be the eldest of many brothers. He called those he intended for this; those he called he justified, and with those he justified he shared his glory.

Gospel Acclamation

See Matthew 11:25

Alleluia, alleluia!

Blessed are you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth;
you have revealed to little ones the mysteries of the kingdom.
Alleluia!

Gospel

Matthew 13:44-52

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Matthew

He sells everything he owns and buys the field.

Jesus said to the crowds, 'The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field which someone has found; he hides it again, goes off happy, sells everything he owns and buys the field.

'Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant looking for fine pearls; when he finds one of great value he goes and sells everything he owns and buys it.

'Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a dragnet cast into the sea that brings in a haul of all kinds. When it is full, the fishermen haul it ashore; then, sitting down, they collect the good ones in a basket and throw away those that are no use. This is how it will be at the end of time: the angels will appear and separate the wicked from the just to throw them into the blazing furnace where there will be weeping and grinding of teeth.

'Have you understood all this?' They said, 'Yes.' And he said to them, 'Well, then, every scribe who becomes a disciple of the kingdom of heaven is like a householder who brings out from his storeroom things both new and old.'

Communion Antiphon

Psalm 102:2

Bless the Lord, O my soul,
and never forget all his benefits.

Have YOU thought? Interpretation

In today's passage the gospel writer appears to describe himself: "every scribe who becomes a disciple of the kingdom of heaven is like a householder who brings out from his storeroom things both new and old." It is a fantastic description of what it means to be an interpreter of the gospel. To interpret scripture, one must draw on what is old; applying understandings of the text in its original context and its original audience. But one must also draw on what is new; making connections between that original setting and the context in which it is being read today.

Gospel reflection

The twin parables of today's gospel – the treasure in the field and the pearl of great value – reveal a paradoxical truth about the kingdom of Heaven. Throughout the gospels, Jesus presents the kingdom as 'now but not yet'; as 'present but future'. This paradox is captured in these twin parables. In both cases, the kingdom is likened to something of great value that is discovered but cannot be immediately grasped. In both parables, the finder must go away and sell everything so that they can eventually come to possess the treasure they have discovered. By comparing this experience with the kingdom of Heaven, Jesus suggests that most of us can only ever catch glimpses of what it means to live in the kingdom. For most of us, only in the future reality of heaven will we ever fully come to understand the kingdom. However, those glimpses that we catch – those moments of inspiration and connection with God and with one another – are like the treasures of the parables. They are enough to inspire us to do what it takes to make sure that we will one day enter into that kingdom reality. The third parable of this gospel passage reveals yet another truth about the kingdom. The dragnet thrown into the sea is like the message of Jesus – it is flung far and wide and does not discriminate about where it falls or on whom it falls. This parable rounds out the chapter that began with the parable of the sower and the image of casting the net is a neat parallel to the indiscriminate casting of seed. It is not up to the one who casts the net, the seed or the Word. Rather it is up to each individual to determine how they will respond to receiving the Word.

Gospel Focus – The Kingdom is like...

Throughout the gospels, Jesus consistently uses the figures of speech of simile and metaphor to describe the kingdom. He never directly describes the kingdom. It is always described as being like some situation or person or as if... This figurative use of language means that we have no single clear picture of what the kingdom is like but we do have a multitude of metaphors and descriptions. This style of description adds to the paradoxical nature of the kingdom – it is like many things yet we don't really know what it is like at all.

Scriptural context – Matthew Ch 13

Over the last few weeks we have now heard Matthew Chapter 13 almost in its entirety. We heard first the parable of the sower then last week three short parables about weeds amongst the wheat, the mustard seed growing into a great tree and leaven in the flour. Finally, today we have had these additional pithy parables. The entire chapter seeks to paint metaphoric images of the kingdom. Woven through these images is a suggestion that the kingdom is open to all – all are presented with the invitation – but not everyone will accept that invitation or respond to it in the same way.

Pope Leo XIV to present Sustainability Medal named in his honour

The Pope Leo XIV Sustainability Medal, a new international honor created by Villanova University to recognize outstanding leadership in sustainability and integral human development, will debut at the 2026 Villanova International Sustainability Conference in Rome and Castel Gandolfo and be presented by the Holy Father himself. By Vatican News

Villanova University and its Office for Sustainability have established the Pope Leo XIV Sustainability Medal, a new international honor recognizing individuals whose leadership has advanced sustainability, ecological responsibility, and integral human development. The Medal, Villanova explained in a press release, "seeks to honor those whose work demonstrates a holistic vision of sustainability, integrating care for the environment, social justice, concern for vulnerable populations, and responsible stewardship of economic and natural resources." The US-based Augustinian university added that it evaluates integral ecology over pure technical metrics. Recipients may come from any field or discipline and will be selected based on their demonstrated impact in advancing a more sustainable and equitable world.

Sustainability Conference this October

The inaugural Pope Leo XIV Sustainability Medal will be presented by the Holy Father in Castel Gandolfo during the Villanova International Sustainability Conference: Responding to the Cries of the Earth and the Poor, from October 12–15, 2026. The Conference will bring together approximately 300 participants—including academics, researchers, Church representatives, foundations, and public and private sector leaders—in a transdisciplinary forum designed to move from dialogue to concrete, collaborative action. The inaugural Medal winner will be announced in September 2026, ahead of the Conference and the official award ceremony at Borgo Laudato si' in Castel Gandolfo. "The Pope Leo XIV Sustainability Medal reflects a deeply held belief at Villanova University: that care for our common home and care for one another are inseparable," said Villanova University President Fr. Peter M. Donohue, OSA, PhD. "By recognizing leaders whose work advances both environmental stewardship and the common good," he said, "we hope to inspire meaningful and lasting impact in communities around the world."

Villanova alumnus

Pope Leo XIV, then Robert F. Prevost, earned a Bachelor of Science in Mathematics from Villanova in 1977, and the University later awarded him an honorary Doctor of Humanities degree in 2014. The Medal will be awarded every two years by Villanova University, as part of the institution's commitment to advancing global sustainability initiatives and fostering integral ecology. It will be presented as part of Villanova's International Sustainability Conference official program. For the inaugural 2026 award, nominees were selected through a review process conducted by members of the University's Sustainability Leadership Council.

Inseparable bond between care for creation and the promotion of human dignity

The 2026 International Sustainability Conference will be hosted between the Patristicum in Rome and the Laudato Si' Center for Higher Education at Borgo Laudato Si' in Castel Gandolfo. The Conference is being organized in dialogue with several institutional partners, including the Dicastery for Promoting Integral Human Development and the Laudato si' Center, established by Pope Francis to promote integral ecological formation, sustainability education and initiatives inspired by Laudato si'. Cardinal Fabio Baggio, C.S., Director General of the Laudato si' Center, welcomed the initiative, saying the Medal for Sustainability honors individuals "whose lives bear witness to the inseparable bond between care for creation and the promotion of human dignity, rooted in the light of our faith." "By recognizing this extraordinary commitment," Cardinal said, "the Medal celebrates leaders whose example inspires future generations to embrace an integral ecology that responds with hope to both the cry of the Earth and the cry of the poor."

BEING CATHOLIC

Q - Who can be baptised?

Baptism is the sacrament in which believers are “reborn as sons of God” (CCC 1213) by “water and Spirit” (John 3:5). It incorporates us into the Mystical Body of Christ (1 Cor. 12:13) and makes us sharers in the mission of the Church (CCC 1213).

The Sacrament of Baptism is open to all who desire to enter into the Christian life. Parents may choose for their child to be baptised according to the instructions given in the Catechism of the Catholic Church.

An adult who has not been baptised may choose to be baptised and will normally enter into a period of preparation before receiving the sacrament.

The Catechism of the Catholic Church states "Every person not yet baptised and only such a person is able to be baptised" (Catechism of the Catholic Church #1246).

For an infant/child to be baptised into the Catholic Church there are two requirements:

- At least one parent of the infant/child consents to the child being baptised into the Catholic Church.
- There needs to be a well-founded hope that the infant/child will be raised in the Catholic religion.

In ordinary circumstances, it is expected that at least one parent of the infant or child be a Catholic. Parents who are not Catholic but want their infant or child baptised into the Catholic faith are encouraged to make an appointment with their local parish priest or pastoral associate to discuss the matter. Parents may be reminded that if it is important they have their child baptised then, it should be as equally important they too would become Catholic, so as the whole family can grow in their faith together.

Q - How do I become a Catholic as an adult?

Becoming a Catholic is a big step. It is something that involves both the head and the heart – so that it involves both learning about the faith and becoming committed to it. For each person it is a unique personal journey. Becoming a Catholic is not a process you can accomplish on your own, it involves joining a parish community. The first step then is to arrange a meeting with a priest or a pastoral associate in your local parish. After initial contact with the parish you may be invited to join in the Rite of Christian Initiation for Adults (RCIA) in which you join with others who are seeking to become members of the Catholic Church. At St Macartan's this process may last approx. three months, and depends very much on your readiness to make a commitment to living a Christian life within the Catholic community.

Requirements for Adults (Age 7 and older also known as the age of reason)

Catechumenate: Adults (and children of catechetical age) must undergo the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults or Children (RCIA/RCIC) or some Catechism to learn the teachings of the Church before receiving the Sacraments of Initiation (Baptism, Confirmation, and the Eucharist).

- Moral Responsibility: At age 7, the Church recognizes that a child begins to understand the difference between right and wrong and can commit personal sin. [1, 2, 3]
- Personal Faith: The child is now considered capable of having and professing their own personal faith, meaning parents can no longer simply make the vows on their behalf. [1, 2]
- Active Intent: The child must express a personal desire and intention to receive the sacrament

Profession of Faith: They must express the will to receive the sacrament and explicitly profess their faith in the Catholic Church.

Parental Support: Parents do not replace the child's voice but must still consent to the baptism, walk alongside them during classes, and promise to foster their ongoing faith life.

Little Mac's Playgroup is for children aged 0–5 years accompanied by a parent or carer.

World Day for Grandparents and the Elderly – Sunday 26 July

This weekend we celebrate the World Day for Grandparents and the Elderly, established by Pope Francis to honour the invaluable contribution of older people in our families, our parish and our community.

The celebration is held each year close to the Feast of Saints Joachim and Anne (26 July), the parents of the Blessed Virgin Mary and the grandparents of Jesus. Although little is known about their lives, they are honoured as models of faithful family life and remind us of the important role grandparents play in passing on the gift of faith from one generation to the next.

This year's theme, "I will never forget you", (Is 49:15), is intended to be a message of consolation and hope for all grandparents and the elderly, especially those who live in solitude or are forgotten. It is also a call to families and the broader community to not forget them, recognizing them as a precious presence and blessing.

Pope Francis often reminded us that grandparents and the elderly are never to be forgotten or treated as though they are no longer needed. Their presence, stories and enduring faith are a precious gift, helping to strengthen the bonds between generations and reminding us of God's faithful love.

We give thanks for all grandparents and older members of our parish. May they know they are deeply valued, loved and appreciated, and may we all take the opportunity to spend time with them, listen to their stories and keep them in our prayers.

"I am with you always." — Matthew 28:20

Parish Footy Tipping Competition

Peter Keightley , loyal Bomber, was our best tipper for last week with 8/9. No-one else scored more than 7/9. Teresa still leads our way , one in front of Delina Frank and Pauline. Irene, Lachlan and Howard's Hawks are one further behind but it's still tough to pick winners.

The Punt Road Oval is undergoing extensive renovations with the rebuilding of the Jack Dyer stand. Can you remember his nick name and the ex players who joined him each week on World Of Sport on Channel 7? Jokes of the Week

Grandparent Jokes

1. She was in the bathroom, putting on her makeup, under the watchful eyes of her young granddaughter, as she'd done many times before. After she applied her lipstick and started to leave, the little one said, "But Grandma, you forgot to kiss the toilet paper good-bye!" I will probably never put lipstick on again without thinking about kissing the toilet paper good-bye....
2. My grandson was visiting one day when he asked, "Grandma, do you know how you and God are alike?" I mentally polished my halo and I said, "No, how are we alike?" "You're both old," he replied.
3. When my grandson asked me how old I was, I teasingly replied, "I'm not sure." "Look in your underwear, Grandpa," he advised "Mine says I'm 4 to 6."
4. A second grader came home from school and said to her grandmother, "Grandma, guess what? We learned how to make babies today." The grandmother, more than a little surprised, tried to keep her cool. "That's interesting," she said... "How do you make babies?" "It's simple," replied the girl. "You just change 'y' to 'i' and add 'es'."
5. A 6-year-old was asked where his grandma lived. "Oh," he said, "she lives at the airport, and when we want her, we just go get her. Then, when we're done having her visit, we take her back to the airport."
6. My Grandparents are funny, when they bend over, you hear gas leak and they blame their dog.
