First Reading

Jeremiah 38:4-6. 8-10

A reading from the prophet Jeremiah

You bore me to be a man of strife for the whole world.

The king's leading men spoke to the king. 'Let Jeremiah be put to death: he is unquestionably disheartening the remaining soldiers in the city, and all the people too, by talking like this. The fellow does not have the welfare of this people at heart so much as its ruin.' 'He is in your hands as you know,' King Zedekiah answered 'for the king is powerless against you.' So they took Jeremiah and threw him into the well of Prince Malchiah in the Court of the Guard, letting him down with ropes. There was no water in the well, only mud, and into the mud Jeremiah sank.

Ebed-melech came out from the palace and spoke to the king. 'My lord king,' he said, 'these men have done a wicked thing by treating the prophet Jeremiah like this: they have thrown him into the well where he will die.' At this the king gave Ebed-melech the Cushite the following order: 'Take three men with you from here and pull the prophet Jeremiah out of the well before he dies.'

Responsorial Psalm

Ps 39:2-4. 18. R. v.14

(R.) Lord, come to my aid!

1. I waited, I waited for the Lord
and he stooped down to me;
he heard my cry. (R.)
2. He drew me from the deadly pit,
from the miry clay.
He set my feet upon a rock
and made my footsteps firm. (R.)
3. He put a new song into my mouth,
praise of our God.
Many shall see and fear
and shall trust in the Lord. (R.)
4. As for me, wretched and poor,
the Lord thinks of me.
You are my rescuer, my help,
O God, do not delay! (R.)

Second Reading

Hebrews 12:1-4

A reading from the letter to the Hebrews

Let us bear patiently the struggle placed upon us.

With so many witnesses in a great cloud on every side of us, we too, then, should throw off everything that hinders us, especially the sin that clings so easily, and keep running steadily in the race we have started. Let us not lose sight of Jesus, who leads us in our faith and brings it to perfection: for the sake of the joy which was still in the future, he endured the cross, disregarding the shamefulness of it, and from now on has taken his place at the right of God's throne. Think of the way he stood such opposition from sinners and then you will not give up for want of courage. In the fight against sin, you have not yet had to keep fighting to the point of death.

Gospel Acclamation

John 10:27

Alleluia, alleluia!

My sheep listen to my voice, says the Lord;
I know them, and they follow me.

Alleluia!

Gospel

Luke 12:49-53

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Luke

I have come not to give peace, but discord.

Jesus said to his disciples: 'I have come to bring fire to the earth, and how I wish it were blazing already! There is a baptism I must still receive, and how great is my distress till it is over!

'Do you suppose that I am here to bring peace on earth? No, I tell you, but rather division. For from now on a household of five will be divided: three against two and two against three; the father divided against the son, son against father, mother against daughter, daughter against mother, mother-in-law against daughter-in-law, daughter-in-law against mother-in-law.'

Communion Antiphon

Psalm 129:7

With the Lord there is mercy;
in him is plentiful redemption.

Living the gospel

Speaking a hard message

Today's gospel reminds us that the message of Christianity is not always a popular one. Sometimes we are called upon to speak a hard message; a challenging message; a confronting message. The message of the gospel frequently confronts our popular culture and accepted social practice. It often contradicts the expedient decisions of our political leaders. There is a responsibility on us to speak the hard message of the gospel even at the risk of unpopularity and even in the face of threat. The Christian heroes of our time are those who call leaders to measure up to the demands of the gospel.

Gospel reflection

This week's short and sharp gospel brings to mind two popular sayings (sometimes regarded as blessings, and sometimes regarded as curses). The first is fictitiously ascribed as an ancient Chinese saying, 'May you live in interesting times!' The inference of the blessing/curse is that 'interesting times' equate to disturbing, tumultuous times or times of rapid change. Some people thrive on such change and upheaval, while others dread the thought of change. The second blessing/curse is, 'May the peace of Christ disturb you!' It occasionally turns up around Christmas or Easter and is sometimes provocatively used by those who advocate for justice and peace. The saying cuts to the heart of what Jesus says in today's gospel: the message he brings is not a cosy, complacent peace, but rather a message that confronts and challenges, even turning loved ones against each other. Jesus reminds us that if we take on his message of compassion, hospitality and table fellowship then it can set us apart from those who have not accepted the message – even family members. It's a challenging message that even love and loyalty within a family can be disrupted by seeking to authentically live the model of Jesus. If we authentically place the needs of the lowly and the outcast ahead of our own and ahead of our family, then this can be very confronting and very disrupting. What are the consequences for family gatherings? What might the gathering at Christmas dinner look like if we take this message seriously? Jesus says that the normal obligations to family have to take second place to acting on his message and bringing about the kingdom of God.

Scriptural context – Turning point

Chapter 12 of the gospel of Luke presents a collection of sayings by Jesus exhorting his followers to take up his message fearlessly and assuring them that if they do so then God will protect them – even in the hardest of times. The chapter captures what must have been a period of frustration for Jesus in his ministry: he has been preaching and performing miracles, yet his followers don't seem to understand his purpose.

Historical Context – Family ties

In the ancient world, and in Jewish culture, family meant everything. One's identity was completely tied up with family. Families absolutely depended on one another for survival and for personal identity. Young men were identified by who their father was. Women quite literally 'belonged' to their father or husband. The entire fabric of society and tradition was held together by extended families. For Jesus to say that his message would tear families apart was to say that all of society would be transformed by the message. The kingdom of God turns expectations and society on their head, breathing new life into tired, restrictive structures.

Pope at Audience: Sincere sorrow can open door to conversion and joy

During his weekly General Audience, Pope Leo XIV urges the faithful to recall that we are God's beloved children embraced by His forgiving love, explaining that sincerely seeking conversion helps us journey toward salvation despite our fragility.

By Deborah Castellano Lubov

Sorrow, if welcomed with sincerity, can be an opportunity for conversion and joy, for God never stops loving us: Pope Leo XIV offered this comforting reminder during his weekly General Audience on Wednesday morning—his last public event in the Vatican before departing for a few days at Castel Gandolfo later in the afternoon. Due to the intense Roman heat, the audience took place inside the Vatican's Paul VI Hall. Regardless, the Holy Father still stopped over to greet faithful who were not able to fit into the Hall and were instead in other locations nearby to stay out of the extreme temperatures.

Not to condemn, but to make reflect and express love

Continuing his series of catecheses on the Jubilee theme of Christ our Hope, the Holy Father focused this week on Jesus' passion, death, and resurrection by reflecting on the moment at the Last Supper when Jesus reveals that one of his disciples will betray Him. In particular, the Pope explored the passage in which, during the Passover supper, Jesus says: "Amen, I say to you, one of you will betray me, one who is eating with me." "Strong words," the Pope said. "Jesus does not utter them to condemn, but to show how love, when it is true, cannot do without the truth." And yet, Pope Leo observed, the way Jesus speaks about what is about to happen is surprising. He does not raise His voice, nor point His finger, nor utter the name of Judas. Rather, he recalled, the Lord speaks in such a way that each person can reflect personally. The Pope said, "This is exactly what happens: 'They began to be distressed and to say to Him, one by one, 'Surely it is not I?'"

Journey of salvation begins with opportunity for conversion

This question—"Surely it is not I?"—Pope Leo said, is perhaps one of the most sincere we can ask ourselves. "It is not," he explained, "the question of the innocent, but of the disciple who discovers himself to be fragile—not the cry of the guilt, but the whisper of one who, while wanting to love, is aware of being capable of doing harm." Yet this realization, Pope Leo suggested, should not make us melancholy, for "it is in this awareness that the journey of salvation begins." "Jesus does not denounce in order to humiliate. He tells the truth because He wants to save."

Pursuing salvation

The Holy Father then issued an invitation to the faithful.

"Dear brothers and sisters, we too can ask ourselves today, with sincerity: 'Surely it is not I?'" the Pope said—clarifying that this should be understood not in the sense of feeling accused, but in opening a space for truth in our hearts. This, the Pope said, is where salvation begins—with the awareness that we may be the ones who break our trust in God, but that we can also be the ones who gather it, protect it, and renew it.

Even if we betray God, we can be converted by His love for His children

Pope Leo stressed that this gives us great hope. "Ultimately, this is hope," he said, "knowing that even if we fail, God will never fail us. Even if we betray Him, He never stops loving us. And if we allow ourselves to be touched by this love—humble, wounded, but always faithful—then we can truly be reborn."

This, the Pope concluded, enables us to "live no longer as traitors, but as children who are always loved."

THANK YOU Archbishop Peter A Comensoli

What a treat it was last Sunday to welcome the Most Reverend Archbishop Peter Comensoli to St Macartan's. Everyone who met him said how easy he was to talk to and how pleasant and nice he was, and I agree.

We are blessed to have him as our Good Shepherd.

I want to thank Bernadette and her "team" who catered for us afterwards, it was a terrific spread. Also to our PPC, Choir and musicians, AV, readers, Altar servers and all who helped with the Liturgy - Well done for making it such a success.

Thank you ALL.

Parish Footy Tipping Competition

6 clever tippers were our best last week with 8/9. Our leader board, however, remains unchanged with 2023 winner, Teresa, alone at the top one ahead of Terry and Tessa. 2 back are James and Nathan followed by Jacinta, Adam and John Franks. The tussle for our 2025 champion continues with only 2 Rounds before the Finals and our top 3 prize winners. As in previous years our Final's competition will start then with more great prizes to be won.

Which injury-hit side has blooded the most number of debutants this season with 14 followed by ??? with 9? Do you know which other Club have gone down a more mature age path this season and are on track to become the first Club on record to complete an entire season without fielding an AFL debutant after landing 2 gun mature-age defenders in the exchange period last year?

Thank you. James and Spencer

Jokes of the Week

1) The hurricane prayer: A hurricane had struck. People were huddled together in a Church building for safety. A preacher was praying with great oratorical effects in the midst of this violent storm, crying out, "Send us the Spirit of the children of Israel, the children of Moses, the children of the Promised land." At this, an old man with less oratory but more directness prayed, "Lord, don't send nobody. Come Yourself. This ain't no time for children."

2) He trusted his wife: A man and his wife were sitting in the living room and he said to her, "Just so you know, I never want to live in a vegetative state, dependent on some machine and fluids from a bottle. If that ever happens, just pull the plug." — His wife got up, unplugged the TV and threw out all of his beer.

3) A woman was seated next to a priest on an airplane during storm. The plane was bouncing up and down. The terrified woman said to the priest beside her: "Can't you do something about this awful storm?" The priest looked at her and said: "I'm in sales, not in Management," pointing upward with his finger.
