First Reading

Malachi 3:19-20

A reading from the prophet Malachi

The sun of righteousness will shine on you.

The day is coming now, burning like a furnace; and all the arrogant and the evil-doers will be like stubble. The day that is coming is going to burn them up, says the Lord of hosts, leaving them neither root nor stalk. But for you who fear my name, the sun of righteousness will shine out with healing in its rays.

Responsorial Psalm

Ps 97:5-9. R. see v.9

(R.) The Lord comes to rule the earth with justice.

1. Sing psalms to the Lord with the harp with the sound of music.

With trumpets and the sound of the horn acclaim the King, the Lord. (R.)

2. Let the sea and all within it, thunder;
the world, and all its peoples.
Let the rivers clap their hands and the hills ring out their joy
at the presence of the Lord. (R.)

3. For the Lord comes,
he comes to rule the earth.
He will rule the world with justice and the peoples with fairness. (R.)

Second Reading

2 Thessalonians 3:7-12

A reading from the second letter of St Paul to the Thessalonians

Do not give anyone food who refuses to work.

You know how you are supposed to imitate us: now we were not idle when we were with you, nor did we ever have our meals at anyone's table without paying for them; no, we worked night and day, slaving and straining, so as not to be a burden on any of you. This was not because we had no right to be, but in order to make ourselves an example for you to follow.

We gave you a rule when we were with you: not to let anyone have any food if he refused to do any work. Now we hear that there are some of you who are living in idleness, doing no work themselves but interfering with everyone else's. In the Lord Jesus Christ, we order and call on people of this kind to go on quietly working and earning the food that they eat.

Gospel Acclamation

Luke 21:28

Alleluia, alleluia!
Lift up your heads and see;
your redemption is near at hand.
Alleluia!

Gospel

Luke 21:5-19

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Luke

Your endurance will win you your life.

When some were talking about the Temple, remarking how it was adorned with fine stonework and votive offerings, Jesus said, 'All these things you are staring at now – the time will come when not a single stone will be left on another: everything will be destroyed.' And they put to him this question: 'Master,' they said, 'when will this happen, then, and what sign will there be that this is about to take place?'

'Take care not to be deceived,' he said, 'because many will come using my name and saying, "I am he" and, "The time is near at hand." Refuse to join them. And when you hear of wars and revolutions, do not be frightened, for this is something that must happen but the end is not soon.' Then he said to them, 'Nation will fight against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be great earthquakes and plagues and famines here and there; there will be fearful sights and great signs from heaven.

'But before all this happens, men will seize you and persecute you; they will hand you over to the synagogues and to imprisonment, and bring you before kings and governors because of my name – and that will be your opportunity to bear witness. Keep this carefully in mind: you are not to prepare your defence, because I myself shall give you an eloquence and a wisdom that none of your opponents will be able to resist or contradict. You will be betrayed even by parents and brothers, relations and friends; and some of you will be put to death. You will be hated by all men on account of my name, but not a hair of your head will be lost. Your endurance will win you your lives.'

Communion Antiphon

Psalms 72:28

To be near God is my happiness,
to place my hope in God the Lord.

Scriptural Context

Apocalyptic writing

Hollywood has done very well out of movies about the end of the world and the term 'apocalypse' has come to have this meaning. However, 'apocalypse' comes from the Greek word meaning, 'to lift a veil' or 'to reveal'. The apocalypse is not the end of the world, but rather the revelation that will come at the end of the world. Writings such as today's gospel passage about what will happen at the end of the world and how God will be revealed are described in the Christian tradition as 'apocalyptic writing'. The most famous of these writings is the book of Revelation.

Gospel reflection

This week marks the final week of Ordinary Time in the Church's liturgical calendar and draws us almost to the end of our journey through the gospel of Luke. Next week's reading of the crucifixion concludes the Year of Luke. It is in this context that we need to read today's gospel passage. Jesus and his disciples are gathered around the Temple in Jerusalem in the final days before he is to be put to death. The end is imminent and Jesus takes the opportunity to reassure the disciples that, although they are about to experience a period of distress, betrayal and persecution that will stretch well into the future, ultimately, God's love and mercy will triumph – not only in their own lives but also in the world. The language of passages like today's gospel can be off-putting at times and can also be seized upon by those who would interpret scripture literally. The graphic descriptions certainly lend themselves to predictions of gloom and doom. However, we must also remember that the gospel was written some 50 or more years after the death of Jesus. At the time of writing, many of these things had already come to pass. The message for the community who were suffering through these very experiences is that they should not despair because all of this was anticipated by Jesus and that ultimately the reign of God will come about and the effort and distress that they have endured will be vindicated. Unfortunately, the lectionary has the passage concluding at verse 19; the complete passage continues on for another 17 verses and so we don't get the full effect of Jesus' speech. In the latter portion, Jesus assures the disciples that the kingdom will surely come to pass. It is a promise that we affirm every time we say the Creed.

Living the Gospel – Comfort

We must remember that the gospel of Luke was written 50-plus years after the death of Jesus. Whilst Jesus may have said something like what is ascribed to him in this passage, we have to accept that the words are influenced to a great extent by the gospel writer. The gospel is not written as a biography but as a means of conveying a message about Jesus. To this end, the writer seeks to give comfort to his audience by having Jesus 'predict' all the things that have indeed come to pass in their community. The message to a struggling community is to 'keep going.'

Historical Context – Expectation

When the gospel of Mark was written around the year 75 the people firmly believed that the world was about to end and that Jesus' return was going to happen any day. Another 10 or so years later, the communities of the gospels of Matthew and Luke were enduring persecution and great hardship. They felt that surviving through this time of struggle would be rewarded with the return of Jesus. However, by the time of the gospel of John, another 10 years later, we see an acceptance that the end is still to come some time in the future.

Pope: AI use in healthcare must ensure quality of care and relationships

Pope Leo XIV encourages participants in a Vatican-organized conference to help ensure that artificial intelligence does not replace interpersonal relationships in the field of healthcare. By Devin Watkins

The Pontifical Academy for Life has organized an international congress dedicated to “AI and Medicine: The Challenge of Human Dignity,” which takes place on November 10-12. As the meeting began on Monday, Pope Leo XIV sent a message to participants, offering his “prayerful good wishes” for their deliberations about the use of artificial intelligence in healthcare.

The Pope noted the pervasive influence of AI and other technological advances on humanity, which he said “heavily influences the way we think” and alters how we perceive ourselves and others. “We currently interact with machines as if they were interlocutors, and thus become almost an extension of them,” he said. “In this sense, we not only run the risk of losing sight of the faces of the people around us, but of forgetting how to recognize and cherish all that is truly human.” Pope Leo highlighted the benefits technological developments have brought to the fields of medicine and health. However, he added, true progress requires that individuals and public entities uphold human dignity and the common good. Though AI and other technologies can be used to devastating effect on humanity when used maliciously, those same technologies have the potential to be “transformative and beneficial” if placed at the true service of the human person, said the Pope. Pope Leo XIV invited healthcare professionals to employ AI responsibly in their field, so that they may fulfill their vocation to be guardians and servants of human life.” “The fragility of the human condition,” he said, “is often manifest within the field of medicine, but we must never forget the ‘ontological dignity that belongs to the person as such simply because he or she exists and is willed, created, and loved by God’.” The Pope then focused on the “irreplaceable nature” of human relationships in providing care for individuals. Medical professionals, he said, must have both the expertise to offer care and the ability to communicate effectively while expressing closeness to their patients.

Healthcare cannot be reduced to solving a problem, he said, adding that technological devices must never take away from the patient-carer relationship. “If AI is to serve human dignity and the effective provision of healthcare,” said the Pope, “we must ensure that it truly enhances both interpersonal relationships and the care provided.” In conclusion, Pope Leo XIV recalled the “vast economic interests often at stake in the fields of medicine and technology, and the subsequent fight for control.” Given the interests involved, the Pope urged participants in the conference to promote a broad collaboration between healthcare professionals and politics in the field of artificial intelligence that extends beyond national borders.

HELP WANTED

SATURDAY THE 15TH @ 9am

Frank is coordinating some work at the back of the hall and needs some help.

We are looking for some able bodied volunteers to help move the fence back. This involves some lifting, but nothing heavy.

If you can help for a couple of hours, that would be appreciated. Please let Frank or the office know ASAP for planning purposes.

THANKSGIVING DONATIONS

At St Macartan's, we deeply value the generosity and commitment of our parishioners who faithfully support our parish community. While we are no longer able to continue with the Thanksgiving cash envelopes due to rising printing costs, and only a handful of parishioners still wanting them, we want to reassure everyone that electronic donations—such as direct debit and periodical payments—are completely safe and secure. All transactions are processed through trusted Australian financial institutions using encrypted systems that protect your personal and banking details at every step. Your contribution is handled with the utmost confidentiality. Your ongoing support helps sustain our wonderful church, our ministries, and the many community works we share together. You can of course always contribute to the collection with cash on the day, should you so chose.

St Macartan's Piety Stall

Hello Parishioners,

To the Visitors and Pilgrims, welcome to St Macartan's and we hope your time with us is enjoyable.

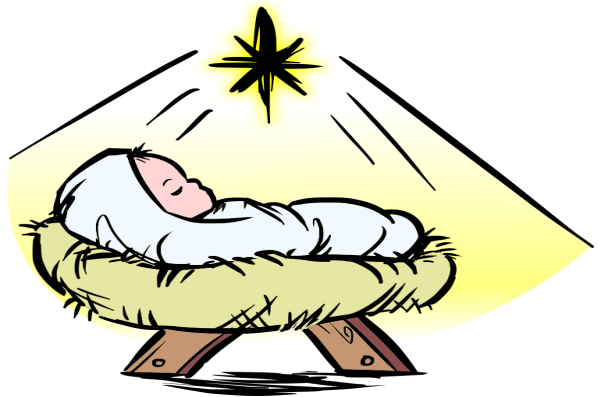

Believe it or not Christmas is only 8 weeks away. What great timing that the Christmas stock arrived this week and it is now on display on the large table outside the Gift Shop. With what we have sold already, I doubt the stock will last until the end of November.

Over the past few months we have tried to work out what stock would be required for the Christmas Fair, Christmas shopping and have ample stock for the hundreds of Pilgrims that will visit our Parish before the end of the Jubilee Year. I hope we now have the quantity and the goods to satisfy all.

The most popular items for the Pilgrims are the Jerusalem wooden plaques and Crucifixes, the Sterling Silver Crosses, Medals and Rosary's. We just can't get enough of these products. We are low on the plaques right now but a shipment has just arrived and we should have more stock just in time for the Pilgrims next Saturday. Hopefully they will love our Christmas stock.

If you haven't visited the Gift Shop recently please come along and have a browse. This Gift Shop is for you the Parishioners, and it won't cost you anything to have a look.

Columban calendars are due in this week so don't do what many did last year and leave it until we have sold out. Christmas cards are also on display so come and grab yours while we have them.

Jokes of the Week

1) Judgment Day, Second Coming, WHAT A PHONE BILL! After finishing his homily on the Judgment Day, the preacher started the prayer of mercy. "Oh Lord," he began. "One of these days we are going to wake up, and it's going to be DARK everywhere! Deliver us, O Lord." "Lord, have mercy on us!" responded the congregation. The preacher continued: "Then we are going to pick up the telephone and call Canberra, and they are going to say, 'It's DARK over here too!'" "Lord, have mercy on us!" responded the congregation. "Then we're going to pick up the phone and call London, and they are going to say, 'It's DARK over here!'" "Lord, have mercy on us!" responded the congregation. "Again, we're going to pick up the phone and call Moscow, and they are going to say, 'It's DARK over here too!'" "Lord, have mercy on us!" responded the congregation." " At this juncture, the church treasurer, who had also been caught up in the fervor of the preacher's prayer, cried out uncontrollably: "Lord, Lord! What a PHONE BILL!"

2) Teeth will be provided in hell: Grandma told her little grandson: "Be a good boy. At the end of the world all the disobedient and bad people will be cast into fiery hell where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth." The little boy raised an asked, "Grandma, you don't have any teeth and you always quarrel with others. How would you gnash your teeth when you are cast into hell?" Grandma replied: "You naughty boy, don't you know that teeth will be provided in hell."
